Kindly gloss over the website above.

Our plans were to be attentive to opportunities for extension of our current business base and we have been delighted with synergies built that might exist..
We have been on track with our projects and have achieved what we set out to do namely address in corporate books curial issues such as Security for Costs, new Property Laws and Regulations, keeping an eye on Expropriation of property and Health matters..

We have worked steadily within our business goals and made use of opportunities to do extra legislative and curial research on additional cases and books this year, coupled with ancillary projects, writing summaries and commentaries Regulation such as the Property Practitioners Regulations - the number still to finalize since Parliament did not sit for the majority of 2020 - a very uncertain situation - with potential for lack of attention regarding new issues and new schemes - if they restricted the Premier's power; or if sufficient opportunity was afforded to raise any regulatory objections; debates for laws or determinations regarding the contents of disputed legislation and/or unConstitutional Regulations. We continue with the goals of Company Law Today into 2021.
